Roberta Short Novel

Now before I write most of this novel I want to talk about why I wrote it. Each night I end up writing over one hundred reasons why I care about you and want to be in your life. I want this novel to be a testament to not only how much I care about you but how important you are in my life as well as how important you are to other people around you. I was originally going to write this as a poem but I have so much to say that I decided to take what you say when I write large paragraphs and actually write somewhat of a novel. Bare with me as it is early in the morning and my feelings are really strong. Please don't write me off because of this or anything. I just want to send this to you so if you're ever having a bad day or are feeling hurt that you can look at it and remember why you matter to people, your family and to myself.

So it started as any other day really, I was at my friend “Erik's” house and I saw that I still had you on my friends list from when we sort of talked while we were both in Chaos a year prior. So once I saw it was you I decided to see how've you been and such. So when I started to talk to you, you started talking back which I didn't expect. You started talking to me about funny things that night and I left you a few offlines since our timezones were all outta wack. I thought you were so funny and cool that I wanted to definitely be friends with you.

From there we started to talk a bit more. I was sort of scared on talking on mic since I didn't do that often and had a lot of anxiety problems since I had slipped into depression a year prior. But you sat there and insisted on getting me on mic. So when I finally heard your voice for the first time I thought you sounded beautiful. You sounded a lot more distinct from when I heard you on Teamspeak. It made me want to hear more of you and get to know you. So you talked about what you were doing and I was playing Archeage at the time since I wanted to pretend I was afk in-case I started acting awkward or weird around you. We joked around and talked about different things here and there that differ in both

America and Italy and got to know the simple introductory things here and there.

Once we got more acquainted you decided to get on camera while I was back at home and try and get me on camera with you. From the moment I saw you on the camera I was literally instantly attracted to you like something out of a love story. Seeing your beautiful smiling face with those beautiful brown eyes and black hair. It was love at first sight and there is no other way to describe it. I instantly knew from that point I wanted to try and be in your life in any way possible.

From there we talked about anything from our birthdays to almost anything. Felt like when to chemicals mix together to form something greater and creates an explosion. Just nonstop talking and fun and laughs and seeing you smile and joke around. Seeing Chuck come out was some of the most fun I've ever had with you and seeing you just laugh and make jokes and funny faces at me. You literally inspired me and gave me the confidence to actually get on cam like I used to before I hit that depression slump. I never wanted it to end. I loved going to bed knowing that someone really amazing and beautiful was there on the other side waiting for me and wanting to talk about our lives together. You actually listened and wanted to hear about my day and life story and interests. I've never met anyone that has treated me with such sincerity and fun. You got me to workout which I haven't done since before I hit the depression slump also. I've lost so much weight and gained back a lot of what I have lost in terms of confidence and spirit. I can now fall asleep to an alarm and wake up at certain times of the day when I used to not be able to do that. I did it for you and because of you. Now I can function as a human being and adult. There is nothing more in this world that is more important to me right now than you or your well being. I've been nothing but happy and joyful

Once we started to get to know each other however you started to talk about how Gabe treated you and other guys and it made me feel very sad for how it turned out and how you were treated. You honestly deserve so much more than any of those guys or future ones can give you. I feel horrible how they made you feel like your heart was on fire and cooled off into this cement mass which makes you unable to love. However when Gabe started to talk to you again I started to feel jealousy. I felt as if I was going to lose this person and an opportunity which only comes once in a lifetime. So I was very scared you'd fall for him again and just leave me behind as just a person who was used to dry your tears when you were sad. I ended up and still am ending up to be very jealous and it's annoying you and hurting me inside also. I don't want to be a guy who always has to apologize for everything I do or make you feel like you have to avoid me because I get too jealous. I want to be a person you can go to for anything and feel comfortable and safe and maybe even put a smile on your face. I want to be a guy you can have fun with and have friendly conversations as well as loving ones and sexual ones. Then when you stated that you didn't want to date right now it really put me on edge because I haven't felt like this in a long time and I just feel like I'm losing you. Each day I feel it more and more and I just wish that I could be yours. So it is not that I don't want to hear about the guys you talk to or have sex rp with or send nudes to or fuck in real life. I really do care about that part as well since I'm your friend, but I want to be much more. I love you Roberta and I say this with the utmost confidence that it is a real feeling. I'd love to talk to you and know about the guys that are in your life if there are any others but it hurts me too much because I want you all to myself. I cannot be in an open relationship or even share you with multiple people. I want you all to myself and I want to be all yours by yourself. I don't want to feel like this anymore and I want to just be confident enough to where we can go back to our conversations about getting to know each other without having to worry that you're falling for another. I know you just got out of a two year relationship and I'm trying to respect the boundaries that are in play. At the same time I know that I can give you the love you need that was lacking in those other individuals. It hurts every day just to type to you and not video call you or talk on voice. I crave it like oxygen and sometimes when I don't talk to you at all I feel a void. I didn't intend on falling for you this hard at all. It just happened and I cannot get over this. I'm willing to wait for you as long as needed and I'm sure as hell not giving up now. You mean too much to me just to move on. Other people in real life told me to move on or just forget about it but no. I know the real you. I know what you like and dislike. I know your smiles at night and seeing you sleep from that one night I was your alarm clock. I want to be that again for you some day and even more. No one can tell me otherwise to leave you alone not even yourself. Most guys would get tired of talking to someone who doesn't want them but I'm not going to give up just yet. I'm going to read this in its entirety to you on voice and cam again in five months as we agreed to. I'm going to ask you again by that time if you're ready or just don't want to at all. I'll respect your wishes and do as you ask, just give me a chance. When you get to know me even more in detail and know everything about me I think you'll find that we do match as I see you. It just really breaks my heart each night knowing that you could easily fall in love with another. That's why I'm so apologetic. I just love you so much that I want to be there with you in Italy and take it slow. I even started learning Romanian as you know which I still suck at(lol). I have never felt this way about another girl to the point where I'd be willing to leave what I can behind, even sell my music equipment to be with you. I want it more than anything and I want to try it. We'll have our fights and our anger at times, but we'll have a lot more growth and love to make up for that like each relationship.

You mean that much to me Roberta. I am writing this literally on the verge of just crying because I've never reached this deep into my heart to write this. I hate writing infact and hate writing more than a few sentences at that. This is just something I have to do and give to you. So that I can rest easy and not have to wake you up every five seconds with paragraphs trying to get your attention. I don't want to invade your personal space or try to step over the line. Can't promise I won't type more things like this in the future. However I can promise this comes from the deepest part of my soul and heart and is how I feel about you and do every second.

I know I can get alittle too much sometimes and that's understandable. I scoff at myself also. I just am literally in love with you with you to the point where it forces its way out of my body into text or speech. Seeing you hover over your camera with your makeup on or off or when you get ready to go out. I feel like I'm actually there in your life. You look beautiful nomatter what. Even if you gained 200 pounds tomorrow I'd still love you. Because of Skype I've gotten to know your personality before your looks and that is something I'll never get with any other woman. Your personality is so perfect that I'd even go as far as saying you have the best out of any girl out there. You understand life and you are a real person and not fake. Nomatter how many times you say that it's because I met bad people, you know yourself that you're a real person. You

Roberta when you look at your life. You may see sadness and a hopeless divide that you cannot move past. However if you take a moment to think about how much you've improved my life, I want you to think of something else. Like I said the other day, your mother even though she treats you like shit and your gma might get mad at you sometimes. You mean the world to them. I know you do because you clean the house like a great daughter and roommate and do all you can to make their days mad. You mean a lot to your friends and to people on Second Life. Like I can't tell you how happy you make people around you. Your personality is as bubbily and cheerful and attracts a bunch of people each time I see you inworld or just even on cam. You always got people interested in you and want to be in your life. Never cry and think you're alone. Because everyone is here for you and myself. You are a wonderful human being and will bring a lot of happiness to everyone that encounters you and cause them to grow.

I never want to lose you and you'll always be my little bear. The girl who sent me little cute bear hug icons that made my day just by doing that. You have so much influence over me. It's like I'm under some sort of spell. I want to hold you at night and sing you to sleep and just wrap my arms around you like a pretzel. I want to wake up in the morning and see you smile at me and wake me up with a cute slow kiss. Then we'd make love really quick before the day starts. I want to support you and just be there with you through thick or thin. I also want to be there on the days when you're not feeling your best and try my hardest to make you smile and boost your confidence so you can make it through okay.

I love you so much Roberta both as a friend and as a lover and a kindred soul.